7. Second Semester Electives

During your second semester you must complete two core units of study (Norms and Mechanisms II and Critical and Emerging Issues in the Asia Pacific region), complemented by one of the two following pathways:

Dissertation elective pathway OR Internship elective pathway; the latter consists of a practical component (as outlined below).

Your preferences will be taken into consideration, but cannot be guaranteed.

Please nominate your preferred elective pathway by ticking the box below:

1. Dissertation

2. Internship

Please note:

- Dissertation elective pathway: students must indicate an area of research they would like to pursue

- Internship elective pathway: students must indicate their areas of interest (e.g. children's rights) and the preferred type of organisation in which to engage in a volunteer internship (e.g. research, advocacy, or service delivery). Obtaining an internship placement at the United Nations (UN) is unlikely. If you do not yet know your area of interest, provide some indicative themes that you might like to explore. Please attach an additional sheet if you require more writing space.

Please describe your research interests in the context of your preferred elective pathway:
